DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hansen (U.S. Patent No. 6,357,440) in view of Dunford (U.S. Patent No. 4,670,911). Hansen discloses a shell 104 including an outwardly extending gas inlet conduit 112. A seal mounts to the perimeter (Hansen, col. 2, lines 9-30). A one-piece elastic headband (Figs. 1-2 and col. 2, lines 31-39) provided with an opening through which the conduit extends to mount the headband to the shell (Fig. 2).

Thus, Hansen discloses the claimed invention with the exception of an elastic headband. However, Dunford, which also relates to a mask retaining device, teaches that it is known to utilize an elastic headband to retain a mask against a patient. Furthermore, the Office takes the position that the use of elastic headbands as a retaining means is well known. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to substitute the tubing of Hansen with the headband of Dunford for the purpose of providing an economical and comfort means of retaining the mask to the patient.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
